

TOKYO TRIAL: JUDGING JAPAN

Director(s): Tim B. TOIDZE

Writer(s): Tim B. TOIDZE

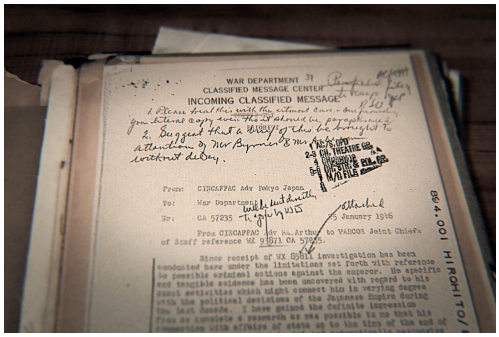

Click here to view the opening sequence.

The Tokyo Trial - or the "International Military Tribunal for the Far East" - had been convened in 1946 to prosecute the leaders of the Empire of Japan for war crimes. It was to be the Nuremberg trial of the Far East, decided upon by the Allies to avenge decades of misery and death. But it would prove to be divisive from the start, the more so, since each of the judges represented one of the nations which had been at war with Japan. After two and half years, only 7 out of the 11 judges agreed with the final verdict. This is the story of why, how and where it went wrong.

The Press:
"Relying on rich archival material and an insightful commentary, the director offers a thoughtful analysis on the role of post-war justice, highlighting how much political issues blur the establishment of impartial judicial truth. "
(Christine Chaumeau - Télérama 02/08/17 - "TT")

Categorie(s): Topical interest & anniversaries, History & Current Affairs
Tag(s): WWII, 20th Century History, Japan

Producer(s): POINT DU JOUR, Sundial Entertainment

Coproducer(s): ARTE France, RTS - Télévision Suisse, RTBF - Télévision belge, SRC - RADIO CANADA, RSI - Televisione Svizzera, NRK-Norwegian Broadcasting Corp., Phoenix Satellite TV (H.K.)

Length: 1x57 / Format: One-off

Original version: French

Versions available: English

Nationality: France, 2016

Rights: worldwide

Support(s): HD file, HD Cam

http://www.pointdujour-international.com/catalogueFiche.php?idFiche=38245&lang=en